Unleashed Devices is a playful exhibition in which artists have reconstructed, remixed and reinvented everyday electronic devices. Working in this way, the artists change our understanding of data and purpose of technology. These exhibits not only challenge our conception of technology but also of music, art and design.

Interactive installations range from a 'Haunted Typewriter' to 'lights that try to escape'. Come and play and see what a little imagination can do with modern technology.

Unleashed devices is curated by Watermans and TINT and is part of the Node London Autumn 2010.
